CIVIL & ENVIRONMENTAL CONSULTANTS, INC. ANNOUNCES NEW LOCATION FOR HEADQUARTERS
Relocation and Expansion Affirm Commitment to Culture and Growth

August 2, 2021

PITTSBURGH, PA — Civil & Environmental Consultants, Inc. (CEC), a leading engineering and environmental consulting firm, announced today the relocation and expansion of its corporate headquarters and Pittsburgh operations from Rosslyn Commons in Robinson Township, Pa., to Cherrington Building 700 in Moon Township, Pa. The relocation is occurring to provide space for continued growth of the business and to provide a work environment that enhances CEC's employee-focused culture.

CEC moved to Rosslyn Commons in 1998. "When we moved to our current location, we were a small but growing firm. At the time, the building more than accommodated our needs. Then in 2006, an addition was constructed that doubled our capacity to facilitate growing operations, and now we have outgrown the building," says Ken Miller, CEC Chief Executive Officer. "This move will allow us to provide more amenities and an upgraded work environment for our employees. The new building will also enable us to continue to grow and provide services to our clients now and in the future."

Formerly headquarters for Chevron's Appalachian operations, the 120,000-square-foot building in the Cherrington Corporate Center will provide the infrastructure necessary to build on CEC's current momentum.

Dan Maltese, CEC's Pittsburgh Operations Lead noted that the current building has been the cornerstone of CEC's Corporate and Pittsburgh Operations. "For the last 23 years, Rosslyn Commons has been a great home for CEC, but we are running out of space and need to plan for future growth."

According to Daniel Stauber, Principal of REXXHall Realty, owner of Cherrington Corporate Center (as well as Foster Plaza): "We are very pleased to have our park selected by CEC as the location for their New Corporate Headquarters. As one of the region's largest engineering firms, their long-term transition of excellence and focus on employee wellbeing is a perfect fit for the investments we have made at Cherrington. We are looking forward to welcoming their employees to their new space, and to their long-term success."
